

WHAT'S NEXT Leading a Thriving Transition

Preparing long-time nonprofit leaders and their organizations

Organizations are continually going through changes, and one of the most destabilizing can be a leadership departure. This is especially true in organizations with a long-time leader who is planning for their retirement.

Long-time leaders can sometimes delay announcing their plans and are unsure of what is next for themselves and the organizations they have founded or built.

In partnership with LeaderSpring Center in Oakland, California, TSNE MissionWorks offers the What's Next: Leading a Thriving Transition program to support long-time leaders through this uncertainty and change. The cohort-based program helps to build the capacity of nonprofit leaders to address succession and executive transition issues, while stabilizing the organization and creating pathways for ongoing sustainability.

Participants in the What's Next program engage in group and individual learning and have confidential, thoughtful, and strategic discussions on the personal and organizational aspects of transition to assist them in navigating their choices for the future.

PREPARE YOUR ORGANIZATION FOR WHAT'S NEXT

The What's Next program convenes departing leaders in four days of facilitated learning and discussion during two retreats in order to:

- Support leaders to create and implement a well-planned transition
- Provide tools that prepare the organization for a leadership departure
- Address leadership development through a lens of diversity and equity
- Share best practices for executive transitions
- Provide personal reflection time to prepare leaders for their life transition

Participants also receive individual executive coaching sessions with the trainers, who bring deep facilitative skills and experience in nonprofit governance, sustainability planning, and executive transition. They also have access to a network of long-time leaders facing similar challenges who provide advice and peer support.
